EMERGENCY ALERTS

The new UK-wide Emergency Alerts service is now live. The system will enable people to be contacted via their mobile phone if their lives are at risk in an emergency. The service will be used to warn you about life-threatening emergencies such as severe flooding or a damaging storm.

There will be a nationwide TEST of the system on Sunday 23rd April 2023 at 3pm. Emergency Alerts are messages sent to all compatible 4G and 5G mobile phones and iPads when there's a danger to your life, health or property in the area you're located. They don't need your location or phone number. Only the government and the emergency services can send them. If you don't have a mobile, you'll still be kept informed through other channels, such as national TV and radio outlets.

If you get an Emergency Alert on your phone, you'll hear a loud, siren-like sound. A message on your screen will tell you about the emergency and how best to respond. You'll be able to check an alert is genuine at gov.uk/alerts.

To learn more about Emergency Alerts, look out for the nationwide information campaign and visit gov.uk/alerts. You can watch a video of how the alert will look and sound at: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MvZMoCReu8>.
